Finding and installing the right network cabling to suit your company or personal needs is a sure fire way to make the most out of your telecommunications and network investments. The installation of network cable wiring are always done as per the standards from the supplier. We can provide and install voice and data cables on both new and existing sites, supplying network cable wiring from CAT5e, CAT6 & CAT6a.

If your network cabling looks like a crow's nest and is a potential occupational hazard will we provide with the perfect data cabling solution for you. Our job is to make sure that the process of installing your computer network cabling is a stress-free affair.

Loss of data and errors on your network could very easily be a result of attenuation (signal weakening) on your present network. Network cabling testing pinpoints the exact location of where the problematic areas on your network are. After testing to see what could be wrong with your data cabling, we will be able to provide you with a viable and affordable solution to rectify your network cabling problems. Rednaiz offers quick and affordable installation of network cabling in your new offices or network multiple locations.
